Introduction

In high-stakes environments such as aviation, defense, oil & gas, healthcare, and emergency response, the ability to deliver clear, concise, and structured briefings and debriefings is critical. This course empowers professionals with the techniques and tools to lead briefings that align teams before action, and conduct debriefings that capture lessons learned and enhance future performance.

Using internationally recognized best practices from sectors like the military, aviation, and project management, this training develops communication discipline, improves situational awareness, and supports a continuous learning culture.

Objectives

- Participants will learn to:
- Plan and deliver effective briefings with a clear structure and purpose
 - Facilitate post-operation debriefings to extract lessons learned
 - Use briefing and debriefing formats such as SMEAC, SBAR, and AAR
 - Identify communication failures and correct them early
 - Create a feedback-rich environment to improve team performance
 - Apply structured communication methods in both routine and crisis scenarios

Why Attend

- Gain a competitive edge by mastering communication in fast-paced, risk-heavy environments
- Reduce errors and misunderstandings through clear expectations and reflection
